

yeah I do a concrete wheat one but include all the links and suggestions for when I'm finding the audio or the videos and specifically the text you know the Gospels and books because that's the thing that I'm struggling to find and communities maybe or web pages that are devoted to it and people like me just finding out about it

Here's a concrete Week 1 plan that matches your rhythm: audio/video in the day, reading and writing in the evening, stillness at bedtime. I'll also show you exactly where to click for the main texts and some community-type spaces. [\[1\]](#) [\[2\]](#) [\[3\]](#)

Step 1 – Core links you'll use

Bookmark these three:

- Main Nag Hammadi text library (clickable list of all texts): "Nag Hammadi Library – The Gnosis Archive" – look for an index of texts and links to English translations. [\[2\]](#) [\[3\]](#)
- Alphabetical index of all texts: "Nag Hammadi Texts – Alphabetical Index" – gives an A–Z list of tractates and multiple translations for some. [\[1\]](#)
- Background info on the whole library (helpful when you're curious about history/overview): an encyclopedia-style article on the Nag Hammadi library that lists the codices and main texts. [\[4\]](#)

For Week 1, we'll focus on the Gospel of Thomas. You can find it:

- On the Gnostic site via the Nag Hammadi Library pages (look for "Gospel of Thomas" in the index). [\[1\]](#) [\[2\]](#) [\[3\]](#)
- Also as a free PDF translation (for example, a Lambdin translation PDF hosted by a university or religious studies site). [\[5\]](#)

For audio:

- Search YouTube for "Gospel of Thomas Nag Hammadi audiobook" – you'll find full read-throughs, sometimes with on-screen text. [\[6\]](#)
- The Gnostic Society / Gnosis Archive hosts audio lectures and talks on Gnostic texts; look for lectures that mention Thomas in the titles. [\[7\]](#) [\[3\]](#)

For community and "people like me":

- The Gnostic Society Library site itself has a lot of material and often links to lectures and organisations interested in Gnosis and Nag Hammadi. [\[3\]](#)
- There are online forums and social platforms (for example, Reddit communities focused on Gnosticism or biblical studies) where beginners ask questions about Nag Hammadi and related texts. [\[8\]](#) [\[9\]](#)

Step 2 – Week 1 daily plan (focus: Gospel of Thomas, sayings 1–24)

Assume:

- Daytime = audio/video as you go about your day.
- Evening = reading + writing (about 40–60 min).
- Bedtime = stillness/meditation (5–10 min).

Day 1 (start gently)

Daytime – audio/video

- Find a YouTube “Gospel of Thomas audiobook” and listen to the whole gospel once, just to hear the flow (even if you don’t understand much yet). [\[6\]](#)
- No pressure to take notes; just let phrases wash over you.

Evening – reading + writing

- Go to the online Nag Hammadi Library and open the Gospel of Thomas translation. [\[1\]](#) [\[2\]](#) [\[3\]](#)
- Read Sayings 1–5 slowly twice.
- Notebook prompts:
 - “In my own words, what is this set of sayings talking about?”
 - “Is there one line that feels important to me today as I begin this journey?”
 - “Tomorrow, I’ll watch for…” (write one simple thing, e.g. moments when I feel “asleep” vs “awake”).

Bedtime – stillness

- Choose one line from Sayings 1–5.
- In bed, close your eyes and gently repeat that line inside for 5 minutes.
- If your mind wanders, just come back to the line without judgement.

Day 2

Daytime – audio/video

- Listen to 15–20 minutes of a talk/lecture about the Gospel of Thomas or Gnostic themes (look for “Lectures from The Gnostic Society” and choose one mentioning Thomas or “Gnostic Gospels”). [\[7\]](#) [\[3\]](#)

- If a phrase stands out, jot a single word or short note in your phone.

Evening – reading + writing

- Read Sayings 6–12 in the Gospel of Thomas. ^[1]
- Notebook prompts:
 - “One saying that confused me and one that felt clear.”
 - “How do these sayings talk about ‘knowing’ or ‘seeing’ differently from what I grew up with?”
 - “Tomorrow’s tiny practice” (e.g. notice when I feel divided inside vs unified).

Bedtime – stillness

- Take the clearest saying from tonight and rest with it for 5–10 minutes as you fall asleep.

Day 3

Daytime – audio/video

- Continue the same audiobook or a different reading of Thomas (maybe 10–15 min while doing chores). ^[6]
- See if any saying you’ve already read sounds different when you hear it spoken.

Evening – reading + writing

- Read Sayings 13–18. ^[1]
- Notebook prompts:
 - Write a short paragraph beginning: “If these sayings were written to a woman like me now, they might be pointing to...”
 - List 3 words that summarise tonight’s feeling (e.g. hidden, light, confusion, courage).

Bedtime – stillness

- Choose one image from the sayings (e.g. seed, light, child, etc.) and simply hold that image in your mind, letting it soften and shift for a few minutes.

Day 4 (lighter day)

Daytime – audio/video

- 10–20 minutes of any Thomas audio (audiobook or commentary). ^[7] ^[6]
- No need to pause; just listen.

Evening – lighter study

- Re-read any two or three sayings from 1–18 that you underlined or that you remember.
- Notebook prompts:

- "Which saying keeps following me around this week?"
- "What in my everyday life feels like 'ignorance' or 'forgetting myself'?"
- "One very small, kind act towards myself I can take tomorrow."

Bedtime – stillness

- Sit or lie quietly and simply watch your breath for a few minutes, then recall the saying that's following you. Let them sit together.

Day 5

Daytime – audio/video

- Find a different YouTube reading of Thomas or another short Gnostic-related video that feels introductory (search terms like "Nag Hammadi introduction" or "Gnostic Gospels introduction").
- Listen for 15–20 minutes while doing something else.

Evening – reading + writing

- Read Sayings 19–24. ^[1]
- Notebook prompts:
 - "What feels most radical or different about the way Thomas presents Jesus or 'the Kingdom'?"
 - "Where in my life right now does this challenge the way I see myself?"
 - "My practice for the weekend will be..." (e.g. noticing when I hide parts of myself, or when I feel most alive/awake).

Bedtime – stillness

- As before, choose one line or phrase; rest in it for 5–10 minutes.

Day 6 (integration + creativity)

Daytime – audio/video

- Any mix of Thomas audiobook and/or a Gnostic Society lecture segment (20–30 minutes total across the day). ^[7] ^[6] ^[3]

Evening – recap & creative writing

- Skim Sayings 1–24 quickly to remind yourself of the week's territory. ^[1]
- Notebook prompts:
 - "Three sayings that really stayed with me this week."
 - "Three ways I saw myself or my life differently because of these readings."
- Then, write something creative:

- A one-page reflection titled "My first week with the Gospel of Thomas," or
- A poem that strings together favourite words/images from the sayings.

Bedtime – stillness

- Very gentle: silently thank yourself for showing up to this new path, then rest with one favourite line.

Day 7 (soft, "community" day)

Daytime – community & light listening

- Spend 15–20 minutes exploring:
 - The broader Gnostic Society / Nag Hammadi Library site (read a bit of their general intro and see what else they offer). [\[2\]](#) [\[3\]](#)
 - If you feel up to it, peek into an online community or forum where beginners talk about Nag Hammadi and Gnosticism (for example, discussion forums where people ask for beginner reading lists and share experiences with these texts). [\[8\]](#) [\[9\]](#)
- Optional: listen to a short talk or clip about the Nag Hammadi discovery or "what is Gnosticism?" to place Thomas in context. [\[2\]](#) [\[4\]](#)

Evening – gentle review

- No new sayings. Just open your notes from the week and:
 - Circle or highlight key phrases or insights.
 - Write 2–3 sentences starting: "Next week, with the next section of Thomas, I want to stay especially aware of..."

Bedtime – stillness

- A few minutes of breath awareness, then recall the theme you're carrying into Week 2 (e.g. "remembering myself," "seeing through ignorance," "the light within").

How to reuse this pattern

- Week 2: continue Gospel of Thomas, next block of sayings (25–50) using the same structure. [\[1\]](#)
- When you finish Thomas, you can move to the Gospel of Philip using the same "listen by day, read/write in evening, stillness at night" rhythm, with the same sites and audiobook/video approach. [\[10\]](#) [\[11\]](#) [\[3\]](#)

If you'd like, next I can do a Week 2 plan (sayings 25–50) or help you set up a very simple "Nag Hammadi" section in your digital notes so everything (links, notes, practices) stays organised and easy to come back to.

1. <http://www.gnosis.org/naghamm/nhlalpha.html>
2. <http://www.gnosis.org/naghamm/nhl.html>
3. <http://gnosis.org/naghamm/nhl.html>
4. https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Nag_Hammadi_library
5. https://www.marquette.edu/maqom/Gospel of Thomas Lambdin.pdf
6. <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=myeWcrGY-co>
7. <http://www.gnosis.org/lectures.html>
8. https://www.reddit.com/r/Gnostic/comments/jyluv6/top_texts_in_the_nag_hammadi_library/
9. https://www.reddit.com/r/AcademicBiblical/comments/6r5q4i/what_are_the_best_translations_for_the_dead_sea/
10. <http://www.earlychristianwritings.com/text/gospelphilip.html>
11. <https://www.gospels.net/philip>
12. <https://scholarlyeditions.brill.com/cglo/>
13. <https://archive.org/details/the-coptic-gnostic-library.-a-complete-edition-of-the-nag-hammadi-codices-5-vols>
14. <https://gnosis.study/library/Гнозис/Исследования/ENG/The Nag Hammadi Library. The Definitive Translation of the Gnostic Scriptures Complete in One Volume.pdf>
15. <https://www.naghammadi.org/en>
16. https://archive.org/details/naghammadiscript0000unse_o3v1
17. <https://ccd1.claremont.edu/digital/collection/nha>